Re: Hospital Relations Team Updates

Carter BloodCare is excited to welcome Angie Olk, Client Relations Manager, to the hospital relations team.

Angie brings 19 years of experience in blood banking and transfusion medicine, including 16 years with Carter BloodCare. She began her career at Louisiana State University Medical Center in Shreveport, Louisiana, before joining Carter BloodCare, where she has worked in the Immunohematology Reference Laboratory (IRL.) Angie earned her MLS certification from Louisiana State University in Shreveport. Many of you may already be familiar with Angie through her position in the IRL and the customer service she has provided there. Angie is available and ready to assist you.

Christina Ramos has also recently accepted the position of Senior Manager of Client Relations. In this position, she will manage and oversee the department including the planning and execution of the departmental tasks while providing strategic and operational leadership to manage and strengthen relationships with clients across Carter BloodCare's service area.
